INTERNATIONAL BIO RECOVERY CORPORATION ANNOUNCES NEW BOARD MEMBERS

VANCOUVER, CANADA, March 3, 2009 – International Bio Recovery Corporation (“IBR”) (TSX-V: IBR) today announced the appointments of Theodore N. Deuel and Aidan Donnelly to the Company’s Board of Directors.

Mr. Deuel is Chairman of Envirco LLC, a California environmental biotech company based in Laguna Hills. Envirco holds an IBR Master License for California and is a significant IBR shareholder. Mr. Deuel has extensive executive management and board experience in a wide spectrum of companies in the U.S. and other international markets. Ted is an Electrical Engineer and an MBA.

Mr. Donnelly is a principal in Recondo Holdings of Louth, Ireland which is a significant shareholder in IBR and the holder of an IBR Master License. He is currently Chairman of NORA, the Irish government agency responsible for Ireland’s National Oil Reserves and has a number of other interests in renewable and environmental start up companies. Aidan holds a B.Sc. in chemistry, a Masters of Industrial Engineering and an MBA.

Ben Van Dyk, IBR Chairman says, “the relationship with Ted Deuel and the Envirco team will greatly enhance IBR’s ability to penetrate the U.S. market with our technology and most particularly the developing market in California for processing animal wastes. We are very pleased with our rapidly expanding relationship with Recondo and the progress we are making in rolling out the IBR technology in western Europe due to the efforts of Aidan and his group.”
